rumors of a startling nature were absent, So far as can be ascertained the few non union workmen in the mill were not reby others during the night. Trains are closely inspected by the strikers and the river front is watched for the appearance of new men, but so far the watchers have failed to discover any. There appears to be nothing hostile in the disposition of the workers who watch the river and the trains.

There has been little talk concerning prosecution of the leaders of the strike for the disorders that have ensued. but these same leaders have taken time by the forelock and made every preparation in the event of arrest. Bail sufficient in amount to cover any charge that can be brought against them has been secured by each of the leaders and counsel have also been retained. An occasional rumor that Hugh O'Donnell and others would be placed under agrees by Sheriff McCleary creates some excitement in the town, but the men most interested seem unconcerned and judging from outward appearances don't place much credence in the reports. The charge that would probably be brought who watch the river and the trains. charge that would probably be brought against them is conspiracy. Some of those who are losing heart think that the killing of the Pinkerton men may form the basis of an indictment for murder, but generally the people place little reliance in this sugges-

STRUCK AGAINST SNOWDEN.

Negro waiters have taken the places of the waitresses at the Carnegie Club-house, or Frick Hotel, who struck yesterday because of the presence of Gen. Snowden and his officers there. It has been learned that the local waitresses were also induced to take their action by the presence of so many un-uniformed strangers at the house. They thought some of these might be non-union men, and to be on the safe side of popular opinion in Homestead, they refused to serve at the hotel during the prevalence of the rumors that non-union men were in town. It can be stated as a fact based on personal inspection that Gen. Snowden and his officers are not starving as a result of the strike at the hotel. Homestead was visited by another heavy thunder storm last night, in which the lightning struck in several places, but no damage was reported and little rain fell. The front of the mill and river bank was last night guarded by soldiers, so that it is really impossible to enter the works from any side without being challenged by guards. The town is also thoroughly policed by the militia and squads are on every corner. As a result not the slightest disorder exists and last.

"The men at Beaver Falls and our Union "The men at Beaver Falls and "The Mr. Frick in his testimony before the Cor gressional Committee stated that 926 were employed in open hearth department No. 2, and about 100 were affected by the reduction the locked-out men of that department: FRICK ANSWERED.

"There are 112 tonnage men affected by the proposed reduction. They produce on a daily average of twenty-four hours 336 tons of steel ingots. In Shoenberger's open hearth department, at the same number of furnaces as in No. 2, 168 tonnage men are required to produce 192 tons of steel ingots. At one particular position in the two mills the Home-stead man would receive $14.15 per ton; in Shoenberger's he would receive $18. In Homestead if any accident occurs to the heat of the steel the men get no pay for it, while in Shoenberger's they would be paid by the day, be the steel good or bad."

This morning early the plant was perfectly quiet and so was the town. It was the first pay day the men have missed, and it is cuons to note its effect upon the day laborers. Many instinctively started early toward the office to get in line, for it is no easy matter to pay off 3,200 men and several hundred boys and those who come first are first served. The men remembered and turned back. The story that 180 families are starving here has has plenty in Homestead. A number of gro cery and dry goods stores were visited last evening, and at all of them it was stated that the wives and children who shop for the locked-out men are paying cash and have no begun to use credit. As a result of idleness more money is spent than when the mill was working, and between strikers and militia the storekeeper "groweth wonderful in the sleekness of prosperity."

There was a rumor current in Pittsburg last night that fourteen militia men had been poisoned at Homestead. Dispatches from poisoned at Homestead. Dispatches from there say that the story cannot be traced to any authentic source. Here and there cases of prostration by the heat and from the effects of a change in water and diet have occurred, but in general the health of the camp has been good. Each company has its own mess and had any particulararticle of food in the mess been poisoned, the chances are at least one whole company would have felt the effects. Hawkers have been selling ples, cakes and lemonade in the camp and hundreds of soldiers and others have purchased these things.

dreds of soldiers and others have purchased these things.

PEW MEN AT WORK.

The statement was made this morning that not less that one hundred men were working in the Carnegie milis. Representative of the press succeeded in getting within the inclosure. They found nothing to prevent a tour through every department of the plant and as a result can state positively that, all told, not more than from fifteen to twenty men are at work to-day. Some of these belong to the company's clerical force, and have denned blouse and overalls and are in charge of a few non-union inboring men. In the pressing mill no work has been done. In the armor plate mill nothing has been accomplished further than to light the fires in the furnaces. In the pressing mill there are about twenty cots and a dozen more in the sngine-room at the pump station. The men take meals in the pressing mill, lugging the soft bases, barrels, hags, etc.

containing provisions, are stacked in the pressing mill and in the office building above the railroad trestles, one of the men said they had provisions sufficient to feed several hundred men for a month already on hand. He said: "We are being well fed and having an easy time of it."

"It will be many weeks before the company gets everything going nicely. No, there are not over twenty or twenty-five men in the entire mill now but I understand more are expected soon." At this juncture one of the dudish looking bosses approached and the interview came to a sudden end. This is the first time that newspaper men have succeeded in getting into the works and the suspicions of the little handful of non-unionists were aroused.

Work Monday.

NOTICES SENT TO WORKMEN.
Apropos of the notices sent to workmen of the mechanical departments of the Carnegie works, offering them their old positions, Hugh O'Donnell to-day pointed out to a press reporter, as an instance of the determination of the Homestead men in fighting their battles, the fact that during the strike of 1889, similar notices, not quite so conciliatory in character, were sent to the workmen here, and that nearly all of them were either destroyed or turned over to the leaders. Accompanying these notices were copies of an agreement, which each man was requested to sign, making concessions to the strik. Homestead when they awoke this morning. Matters had assumed a very quiet phase and rumors of a startling nature were absent.

The situation at the Twenty-ninth and

The situation at the Twenty-ninth and Thirty-third street mills of the Carnegie Steel Co. remains practically unchanged. The strikers will hold a meeting at 20 clock this afternoon at which they will perfect their organization for carrying on the fight by appointing several committees. It is said that all of to-day representatives of the firm have been circulating among the strikers trying to get them to return to work on Monday. They succeeded in getting quite a number of the ment o consent, but when it was explained to the strikers that it would

PREPARING TO RESUME.

MONDAY THE LAST DAY OF GRACE FOR THE STRIKERS. PITTSBURG, Pa., July 16.-The following nothe works and was sent all over the country;
Notice—Individual applications for employment at the Homestead Stoel-works will be received by the General Superintendent, either by letter or in person, until 6 p.m. Thursday, July 21, 1892. It is our desire to retain the service of old workers whose past record is satisfactory and who did not take part in the attempts which have been made to interiere with our right to manage our business. Such of our old employes as do not apply by the time abovenamed will be considered as having no desire to reenter our employment, and the positions which they held will be given to other men, and those first applying will have the choice of unfilled positions for which they are suitable. This notice will be the last given to the employees of the works, and on non-complance with this the places will be filled with nonunion men.

That there are non-union men in the Homestead mill and more coming to day is evident from what hir. Lovejoy, secretary of the company, to day said. When asked how many non-union men were in the mill he

Well, now really I cannot discuss the details of this question, and am not at liberty to tell you how many men there are in the day or before you get ready to start the mill?"

"No, I cannot. There are some things the public has no right to know and that is one of them. There is not the least doubt, however, that we will have enough men to work the mill in a satisfactory manner. The Homestead mill will be started up July 23, and the notice posted to day will be the last.

"The men at Beaver Falls and our Union mills will be given until Monday, July 18, to return to work under a new agreement. The Union mills will be started Monday, the to return to work under a new agreement. The Union mills will be started Monday, the isth, and we will have no trouble in getting competent men to take the places, in spite of what the men say about none out old hands being able to successfully run the works."

The Carnegie Steel Co. has advertised for bids for furnishing materials and building 100 houses on the city farm lots at Mulhall Station. These houses will be erected at once and will be for the use of the men employed in the mill. The location is inside of the inclosure and protection will thus be assured to the men, even in their houses. The houses will be from six to eight rooms and each will be built separately on a good-sized lot. If there are non-union men in the mill there are not more than ten or twelve. A prominent and well-informed labor leader explained the smoke from the mill by saying: "The cupaios are filled with dolomite and are lighted to save the burned stone in them. A few furnaces are fired also, this being done to save them from dampness. There are no men in the works but the regular watchmen and a few firemen. These people were never stopped going to or from the mill. Our people thoroughly understand why the men are there and are not alarmed about it, nor are they concerned over the lighting of the furnaces."

Al 9 o'clock this morning the steamer Tide, loaded with provisions, started form the works at Homestead. She passed through look No. 1, where six or eight men boarded her. The report at the lock was that they were laborers. One of the leading officials of the Carnegie Steel Co. was found at the guerral office to-day sorting over a miscellaneous collection of mail, among which were many letters making applications for positions in the Homestead mills. Others expressed a dissatisfaction with the strike and were intended to copy, omitting the signature:

HOMESTEAD, J

Carnegie Steel Co.: There was a good many of us out for sympathy's sake, but sympathy does not fill a hungry stomach and there is no use for 3,500 men to stay out for 200 who make from $5 fo $16 a day. They can stand it to take a vacation it they saved their money, but we mechanics do not receive such a large amount and think there are about the most of us that would go back if protection was secured.

The Carnegie company intends to begin the work of repairing its mills here on Monday next preparatory to starting anew on the work left unfinished by the lockout. This morning every man in the mechanical department of the mills received the following notice:

notice:

DEAR SIR—Repairs will be resumed on Monday morning, July 18, 1892. We write you to return to your old position, work to commence at the usual J. A. POTER, time. Respectfully, General Superintendent.

The operators are protected by wo armed guards on duty all the time. The lives of several reporters have been repeatedly threatened. When the report reached

It is stated on good authority that as soon as the excitement cools down non-union men will be brought back and put to work. When this is done a bloody war is expected. At Harrison, Idaho, preparations are being made by a number of the friends of nonunion miners supposed to have been killed in the Mission massacre to drag the river in the hope of recovering the bodies of any who may have been shot while attempting to swim the river. The first official order was promulgated by Col. Hon. J. J. Frey, General Superintendent of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway, arrived in St. Louis arrived this morning on the steamer Abbey from Boonville, Mo. When seen this morning by a Post-Disparch reporter at the Southern Hotel in regard to the robbery of an M. K. & T. train at Adair, I. T., Mr. Frey said: "I have been in the middle of the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers on our boat for the past day and a half, and I am not very well posted on the latest developments. I know that we have a large force of men after the robbers, but it is the next thing to an impossibility to catch them in the Territory, as they are harbored by friends who will keep them in a place of safety until the excitement blows over; then they will plan another train robber; I don't know how much money was taken, but from what I can learn I judge about $1,400 was all they made away with but there is a probability of the amount beling somewhat larger.

"The robbery was an surprise to me, as we were aware that an attempt would be made to hold up our trains, and every train sent out was well guarded, and while it may be a surprise to some that the robbers captured the train while armed guards were aboard, it is not a surprise to me. The conductor was grabbed by the robbers as soon as he alighted from the train, and the other employes on the train being overhauled and marched along with the robbers, there was danger of killing our own men is what kept the guards from firing into the robbers. The night was intensely dark and one man could not be distinguished from another, and as the work was accomplished in very short order, the defense could not have been otherwise.

Spokane, Wash., July 16.—Wallace is quiet and to all appearances will remain so. TIN MINE FAILURE.

Engish Investors Losing Money in the Temescal Mines.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 16 .- A morning paper devotes much space to the subject of the Temescal Tin Mines at San Jaccinto, San Bernardino County, in which it declares that the mines are an utter failure. This declara tion is based principally upon the testimony of John J. Quick, a mining engineer of long experience in the Cornish tin mines, and who Jacinto mines. He was engaged by the news paper to examine and report upon the condition of these mines. Engineer Quick in his ment of the condition of all parts of the mines, and declares that they are not producing sufficient tin to keep a mill going, and that the little ore in sight will soon be exhausted. He further dectares that exhausted. He further dectares that no large body of ore, the working of which would pay, has ever been found in any part of that district. These Temescal mines commenced operations in April, 1981, and not withstanding expectations that they would produce from 100 to 200 tons of ingot tin monthly the average production for the past two months has been less than twelve tons, worth about $5,500 in the San Francisco market, and that during all that time the English stockholders have been sending out upwards worth about 25,000 in the san Francisco market, and that during all that time the English stockholders have been sending out upwards of 18,000 per month to meet deficits. The paper states further that the productions for the past three months have averaged between nine and ten tons, and that was produced by scraping out leavings in the old stopes, the new workings not revealing any pay ore. It is said that $2,000,000 have been expended in the purchase of the mines and their improvement and that they have a monthly pay roll of between $7,000 and $8,000. The paper states that the English stockholders have summoned to London Capt. Harris, late superintendent of the mines, who resigned his position because he was convinced the property would not pay; that Harris left San Jacinto late Wednesday for London, and that with a few days there will be a meeting there of the stockholders of the San Jacinto Tin Co., when facts in connection with the mines will be made public.

RED RIVER.

It Slices Off Texas Soil and Adds It to the Indian Territory. PARIS, Tex., July 16.—There is perhaps not more peculiar or treacherous stream on the American continent than Red River. It s more than 1,500 miles in length and from its source in the Rocky Mountains to its mouth in the Mississippi delta there is a fall of more than 3,000 feet or over two feet to the mile. This causes it to flow with great rapidity and when it is swollen its sweeps madly toward the Gulf carrying in its course. It is constantly changing its channel, every freshet thing in its course. It is constantly changing its channel, every freshet causing a change in the bed of the river. The river is slowly but surely coming south, and by so doing is depriving Texas of much of its domain and giving it to the Indian Territory. Under the treatles with the five civilized tribes, the south bank of the Red River was to be the boundary line between the Indian Territory. In many places old traces of the river bed can be seen some distance north of where the stream runs to-day. Near Arthur City, in this county, several hundred acres were transferred from Texas to the Indian Territory this spring. At the old Nesbitt crossing in Fannin County three buildings that forerly stood on Texas soil are now half buried in the sand in the Indian country, fully three-quarters of a mile from the boundary line. Ten years ago Horseshoe Lake in Fannin County, was three miles south of Red River. Now the channel of that stream is within half a mile of the lake and at the rate the river has been encroaching upon Texas soil in two or three more years the lake will go into the river. These changes have cost the planters along the river a great deal and will continue to do so, as the river will likely make most important changes, as it seems determined to shorten its course to the sea by cutting off many of the long and useless detours it now makes. Every mile that is cut off gives its waters that much greater impetus and will make still greater changes in the channel.

TO-DAY'S RESULTS.

At an early hour this afternoon the election At an early nour this atternoon the election returns showed only one seat gained by the Liberals. This was in the south division of Lincolnshire, where in the general election of 1886 Mr. A. R. Heath, Conservative, was returned without opposition. Mr. Heath contested the district this year, but Mr. contested the district this year, but Mr. Parks, his Liberal opponent, was elected by a majority of 839. Mr. Justin McCarthy, the leader of the anti-Parnellites, who was defeated in Londonderry a few days ago, much to the delight of the Parnellites, was elected yesterday in the north division of Longford, beating his Conservative opponent, Mr. J. M. Wilson, by a majority of 4,257. Sir Wilfred Lawson, who is an advanced Radical who favors the disestablishment of the church, the abolition disestablishment of the church, the abolition of the House of Lords and the doing away with standing armies, has been elected in the Cockermouth Division of Cumberland, which he lost in the election of 1855 by a majority of 10 votes, but which, standing as a Gladstonian Liberal, he carried in 1886. Ginastonian Liberal, he carried in 1886.
Sir Wilfred is well known for his devotion

This bill was supported by forty members of the House. On June 18, 1880, Sir Wilfred succeeded in carrying his "local option" resolution by a majority of 26. He said the measure he advocated did not involve support of the third party. It made the third party unnecessary in mining States, as both the existing parties could nominate party electors and bind them to exercise their trust and in the interest of these States indefinitely if necessary unless the requisite assurance was given by the candidate. All parties in the mining States, Democratic, Republican and People's party should act with harmony on this subject and thus prevent the election of any candidate as President who would after so long an agitation overpower and dominate the popular will.

SMUGGLED OPIUM.

Dealer. BUFFALO, N. Y., July 16.—William Watts, a well-known produce dealer in the market, who brings most of his goods from Canada, was arrested yesterday on a charge of smuggling opium. He had been under suspicion for some time and had been watched. The officials learned that he was in the habit of bringing over about $3,000 worth of opium each trip. His scheme was ingenious. He lined the bottom of his wagon with eggs, and in the center put a quantity of epium. The not not be sent of the egg crates were usually filled with oplum. Watts made about 33 a can on the stuff. He bought it in Canada for $5 a can and sold it for $8. There are a dozen Chinamen implicated in the smuggling scheme, and they will be arrested to day. The Canadian end of the gang will also be taken in to-day.

FROM THE WINDOW.

Terrible Fall Received To-Day by Mrs. Fred Goldsmith.

SHE SAYS HER HUSBAND THREW HER FROM THE THIRD STORY.

The Woman Landed On the Roof of One-Story House and Dragged Herself Into a Neighbor's-Her Husband Claims She Fell-She Will Probably Die-Police News.

Mrs. Fred Goldsmith, the wife of a freight conductor for the Bridge & Tunnel Co., either fell out or was thrown out of a window at 1107 Clark avenue this afternoon and so badly injured that she is not expected to live. The Goldsmiths live in couple of rooms on the top floor of a threestory building opposite the Four Courts, the by a Mrs. Carnes and a Mrs. Hunter. It ap pears that Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith have been married about eighteen months, and that Mrs. Goldsmith is very jealous of her hus-band and that they have had a great quarrels and even fights in ence. Mrs. Carnes was requested some time ago by Mrs. Goldsmith to keep a watch for her on her husband, but onsulting with Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. decided not to meddle in the affairs of another family, and so told ismith. The latter was angered at Mrs. Hunter for her advice to Mrs. Carnes. and they had a spat and didn't speak after that until this afternoon. This morndirectly afterwards the Carnes and Hunter women heard some one tumbling downstairs. It proved to be Mrs. Goldsmith and she claimed that her husband had thrown her down. He exhibited a cut on the side of his head, and said that his wire had hit him with an umbreila.

Then he went to bed in the front room, he working at night and sleeping in the day time.

The next the Carnes and Hunter women heard or saw of the Goldsmiths was about 17:80 this afternoon, when Mrs. Goldsmith with her clethes saturated with blood opened Mrs. Carnes' door. She said she had tried to get into the room where her husband was, but he would not lether in. She said that she was going to die and asked Mrs. Carnes to run for the doctor, but not to tell the police. Mrs. Carnes did as requested, stopping on way to tell Mrs. Hunter.

Mr. Hunter says that Mrs. Goldsmith asked her forgiveness for the names she had called her, and asked her to kiss her, which she did. Mrs. Goldsmith refused to say whether she had been thrown out of the window or had jumped out. Mrs. Carnes returned pretty soon with the report that she had telephoned for a doctor. About this time Charles Bang, an acquaintance of the families, paid Mrs. Hunter a visit and learning what had occurred at once notified the police and assisted Officer McLean in finding Goldsmith, who in the meantime had left the house and gone to Heffier's restaurant near by, but without doing anything whatever for his wife. To Mrs. Carnes and Mrs. Hunter he had said he was glad his wife jumped out of the window and wouldn't care if it had killed her. When arrested he expressed himself in about the same way. He claimed that he had not thrown his wife out, but that she had jumped out or was thrown out or what had occurred. If she died she didn't want her husband to be punished for it she said.

Dr. Jacobson finally arrived and examined the injured woman. He found her bleeding from an internal wound and could not tell exactly the character of it, but said that the woman had lost a great deal of blood and that the result was very doubtful. An hour or more elapsed after the fall from the window before the police were notified or medical assistance arrived.

Later in the afternoon Mrs. Goldsmith told the police that her husband had thrown her the defendants and was followed by Judge Harvey and then McDonald for the Governor spoke again. As the other side wanted to do some more talking the court took a recess to 8:30 p. m., when Judge Harvey made another argument. send Bailard to the Work-house instead of to the jail.

The reasons given by Gov. Johnson for asking for a new trial for Ryan and Murphy have already been published in the Post-Dispatch, the principal one being the admission by the court of Antonio Marre's statement to his wife shortly after the assault on him, in which he claimed that the assault was committed by Ryan, Murphy and Bailard. This statement was admitted as Marre's dying statement, when the evidence showed, Gov. Johnson held, that his injuries were at the time not considered fatal. This was the only levidence against Murphy, he claimed, except the statement of Con Ryan to the policemen, after his arrest implicating Murphy, and that statement should not have been used, as Mr. Harvey used it in his speech to the jury, as corroborative of Marre's statement to his wife implicating Murphy.

Hothouses at Nice Where Flowers Are Forced for Market.

The following translation of an article by M. Henry de Vilmorin, in Le Rewe Horticole, appeared in the Literary Ligost:

"I have several times had occasion to visit the famous Park of Roses at Nice. The flowers there are the most beautiful in the world. "Both banks of the Var are bordered by a line of hills of some height, which are prolonged as far as the sea. The hills on the left bank aid in protecting the whole plain of Nice from the northwest wind. Toward the southern extremity of these hills; on very rich, alluvial soil, is the Carras quarter, in which are the principal market gardens of Nice. In that quarter, also, a little higher up on the hill, is the Josephine Villa, or Park of Roses.

"Here roses are cultivated exclusively for sale in winter as cut flowers. Out of the twenty-eight or thirty acres which the property comprises about ten acres are devoted to the purpose of forcing the rose trees, and are covered with very numerous small greentheories of these being always in use for furthering the production of the flowers. The total surface covered with glass exceeds 6,000 square maters, brain acre and a half. "Naturally, it is during the monital of active sale, from November to April, that the principal harvest occurs; but even in the spring and summer the very beautiful roses grown under shelter are in demand by the dealers. These roses are the only ones, or nearly the only ones, which shows purity of perfect tint, exempt on the outside petals from the discoloration, the veining and folds, which are caused by the bits of cold, too warm sunstrokes, or prolonged humidity. "During the summer the movable sides of the greenhouses are taken away, and there remains only the glass roof which protects the flowers from the rain storms.

"The proprietor and founder of the establishment is Mr. Antoine Mari. It may be said that the most striking feature of his mode of cultivation is the simplicity of the means employed and their perfect adaptation to the end to be attained, which is to obtain an abundant and cont

THE CHICAGO'S ROOSTER.

Dick Is the Name of the Pet of the Flag-

From the Boston Herald. On the flagship Chicago there is a rooster which has been on board for about eight months, during which time he has delighted the crew and won his laurels on several the crew and won his interest of battlefields.

He was bought at Barbadoes on the squadron's way South last winter and was intended to be served for Christmas, but during bad weather one day he crowed so lustly and seemed such an andaunted rooster that one of the officers interceded for him and his life was spared. of the officers interceded for him and his life was spared.

On the quarter-deck are several big ventilators, which are partly covered with polished brass, making reflectors. Dick, for so the rooster was named, soon passed these ventilators and saw his reflection. His first air of startled surprise was met by the other rooster with one which entirely equaled it, and upon this Dick ruffled his feathers and looked threatening, only to be met, however, by one quite as defiant.

This was more than he could stand, and by one quite as defant.

This was more than he could stand, and after prancing around a little he advanced to the attack, being promptly met by the other rooster. Then ensued a very comical encounter, for Dick struck at this ventilator with bill and spur, getting more and more mad every minute, and furnishing side-splitting amusement to officers and men who were interested spectators, until finally, from sheer exhaustion, he was obliged to give up the fight and retire, having only the satisfaction of finding that the other rooster retired likewise.

tion of maining that the other rooster retired likewise.

This curious delusion lasted several weeks, and it became a common thing to see Dick either sulienly glaring at that other one or actively engaged in trying to damage him. The crew are very fond of him, and when they went ashore for target practice on an uninhabited island, Dick was allowed a run on shore.

At Ensenada, Argentine Republic, the ships lay alongside the stone docks of the Grand Canal, and Dick was soon ashore over the gang-plank. He was calmiy picking up things when a dog came along, to which he promptly gave battle. He fought him in the advance and retreat style, for they did each other no damage, and confined themselves to short dashes, barking and threats from the dog, and determined striking and spurring on the part of the rooster. Dick several times nad these fights and at one time held three dogs at bay. From the Brooklyn Eagle.

Did anyone ever hear of fish poker? Well, it's a great game, anyhow, and it is questionable whether it does not beat out of sight the parents from which it sprang. The first game of fish poker was played about a year ago by Col. Sinn and two prominent Baltimore gentlemen—Mr. Brewer and Dr. Berkinger. They were then on the coast of Maine, at a little village named Vinal Haven, between Portland and Rockland. Each day they went out to fish in a large, comfortable rowboat, and each evening found them at a card table engaged in a sociable, friendly game of draw for small stakes. Thus they had passed three days and nights, and the morning of the fourth day found them out in the rowboat hauling in fish at a great rate. They were conversing about the hands they had held on the previous night, and Mr. Brewer said:

"We'll have a glorious game after supper," per."

The thought stirred all the sporting blood in Col. Sinn's veins. "What's the matter with having it now?" he asked, deliberately. "What?" exclaimed Dr. Benzinger, his rich Southern voice raised in fine surprise. "Leave this g-1-1-orious fishing, this lovely sceners?"

"What?" exclaimed Dr. Benzinger, his rich Southern voice raised in fine surprise. "Leave this g.-1-lorious fishing, this lovely scenery?"

"How could we?" asked Mr. Brewer, in piteous appeal.

"Leave nothing," said the Colonel, decisively. "We'al stay and play the game right here."

His companions stared at him and wiped their foreheads.

The Colonel was perfectly cool and collected. He got a bite, tilted up the end of his sigar and hauled out a magnificent cod. Then he faced 'found and prepared to expound his ideas.

"Why not make cod high—call it aces—make haddock next, kings; cunners (yellow perch), queens, and flounders jacks?"

"What will we do with the conger eeis and skates?"

"Throw 'em out; they will delay the game. If a man catches a skate or an eel his hand is dead," said the Colonel. "Whatever a man catches in that time belongs to his hand. Two pairs beat one pair, three of a kind beat two pairs, full hands beats three and four of a kind beats full hand."

"Each ante up a collar, and at any time any player can raise it and the others must come in or lose the pot."

"By gracious, it's a go," cried both the Southerners. Then the fun began.

It didn't matter how many cards a man drew. Some caught seven in half an hour and some only one or two, but all was not lost to the low man till the half hour was up, as the lucky player would often lift a skate or a conger and thus queer his whole hand.

Col. Sinn caught a pair of cod in the first ten minutes, Dr. Benzinger got a haddock and a yellow perch and Mr. Brewer a pair of flounders. Col. Sinn promptly raised the pot a quarier and the others saw him.

Col. Sinn and Mr. Brewer both had bites, and pulled in their lines with frantic haste.

"Three flounders!" shouted Mr. Brewer, rising and performing a war dance on the seat as he proceeded to raise the pot again.

"Three cod!" shrieked the Colonel, planking down another quarter.

The men were now fishing with desperate eagerness. A loud, triumphant yell from Dr.

"Three cod!" shrieked the Colonel, planking down another quarter.
The men were now fishing with desperate eagerness. A loud, triumphant yell from Dr. Benzinger broke the silence.
"Full hand on haddock!" he announced, and up went the pot again.
"Four flounders!" shouted Mr. Brewer.
"Four cod!" was the Colonel's response, The half hour was up and four cod took the pot.

The half nour was up and four cod took the pot.

The next hand began, and proceeded with varying fortune, and the game grew more and more exciting. The fish bit as though they understood and entered into the sport, and the vicissitudes encountered were of the most tantalizing description.

Mr. Brewer caught a pair of cod, Dr. Benzinger got three flounders and the Colonel two pairs cod and haddock.

"Ray!" shoated Mr. Brewer, as he pulled up a third cod.

His triumph was short-lived, as the Colonel filled his hand on haddock, and Dr. Benzinger caught a fourth flounder.

Time was nearly up when Mr. Brewer grew excited again.

"Got'em! got'em!" he cried. "Four cod, by jinks." His taut line and hard pulling showed that a very heavy fish was coming out.

Dr. Benzinger sat in the bow of the boat, all and the eel, mixed up, wrestled and tore around.

"He's quee—quee—queered his hand!" exclaimed Dr. Benzinger. He kicked up his heels in triumph and a moment later there was a loud splash.

His companions fished Dr. Benzinger out, choking with laughter and salt water. They all felt too wearied to play any more, and the bow of the boat was pointed for home immediately.

Every day thereafter fish poker was played with wild enthusiasm, and the party got more fun and excitement out of it than all other sports put together.

A NOBLE TRAMP. He Finds Money and Answers an Ad-

From the Kansas City Times.

A young gentleman of the East Side lost two crisp bills not long ago. He advertised for them, but after waiting a week despaired of finding his money. He thought that advertising was a loss, but, like others, he was mistaken. A week had gone by since the last advertisement had appeared. One morning the morning of the eight day, brought one of those tired creatures, persecuted by patent medicine advertisements and driven almost frantic by the jokes at their expense in the comic weeklies, including the london Puschatramp; only a tramp. He asked for something to eat. This is the custom of tramps after a long walk.

The gentleman in question has a charitable cook. When our friend, the tramp, had finished his breakfast he asked if anyone had lost anything. The cook had heard, as had the rest of the household, of the loss. She, somewhat astonished, asked him what he meant. He answered with a question. He had been in the West only a week; he had come from New Hampshile. "Didn't you advertise for something?" The East Sider walked into his kitchen. He had overheard the dialogue. He responded that he had lost, some time ago, a new $6 bill and also a crisp $40. The tramp produced them. He was offered the lesser note with the characteristic generosity of the man who has lost the use of $15 for two weeks. He refused it, with an allusion to Elijah when the ravens brought him food. He thought that Elijah did wrong in receiving anything that came from some place he knew not whence. The philosopher, our tramp, however, was prevailed upon to accept $1.25 with which to pay his fare to some place in this State, where he expressed a wish to go. He bowed himself out and disappeared.

She Found it Out When She Got Into Her

From the New York Tribune.

A young married woman in this city, who is a doctor of medicine and is slowly building up a nice practice, often finds it convenient to drop the title and be introduced to new acquaintances as Miss R—, instead of Dr. Theodora R—, So many otherwise sensible people have a prejudice against female doctors that she like to establish herself in their respect and good graces by her natural charms of manner, looks and brains before she "springs" her profession on them. Often, too, she finds it more useful when writing to people she does not know to sign herself Dr. R—— instead of Dr. Theodora R—, and once this latter habit got her into an awkward situation, though more frequently it worked advantageously.

It is her custom to spend her summer vacation in a quiet Maine town which is most easily reached by boat from Boston. This time she telegraphed ahead to the Boston steamship line: "Keep me a berth for tomorrow night," and signed if "Dr. R——." She was pretty well known to the omcers and agents of the line and had no doubt that that was enough to secure it. Reaching Boston by rail she hurried down to the boat without going to the agent's office. Once on board she greeted the steward as an old friend and went straight to her cabin and began to make herself comfortable. The boat had not got well under way before there came a knocking at her door, and when she opened it a big, fat man peered in and then started back with an angry look on his face.

"This is my cable," he said.
"Excuse me, sir. It is mine."

"Here is my check and key with the proper number on it."

"There must be some blunder, madam." From the New York Tribune.

"Excuse me, sir. It is mine."
"Here is my check and key with the proper number on it."
"Mine bears the same."
"There must be some blunder, madam."
"There must be, but the blunder is not mine, sir."
"It must be, madam. It is not likely that two gentlemen would be mistakenly assigned to your state-room."
"Are there two gentlemen assigned here?"
"Yes, madam. The upper berth has been taken by myself and the lower by a Dr. R—of New York."
Then it dawned upon Dr. Theodore R—that she was not as well known to the agents as she thought. They had supposed Dr. R—to be a man and had assigned her to a state room with another man. This all flashed through her mind in a twinkling. Then she said: "Excuse me, sir. This is evidently my mistake," and gathering her things up with a swoop she marched out into the saloon and sat there all night, sooner than make public the laughable predicament in which she had placed herself.

Getting Wives in Siam.

8,000 or 4,000 men, although the name of every male subject is on either the army or naval roll. But they are never called into service, as the King cannot stand the expense of feeding a large army. Moreover, it is not needed, as there are few disturbances.

"The King's army is larger than his family, but the latter is of pretty fair size. Nobody dares to give the exact figures, but at last accounts he had 100 wives and 105 children. The present King is a young man, about 88 years old, I think, and he is popular. He is the highest power, owns the whole country, and does about as he pleases, but he is well iked. His eldest son is the Orown Prince. Just now that youth is a member of the Buddhist priesthood. All the princes and nohles have to go through the priesthood before they are fully fledged."

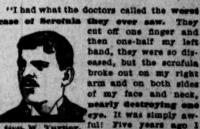

"How does the King get all his wives?"

"They are presents to him from the nobles. They offer him their daughters. Of course, no one would dare to offer him one that was not fairly good looking, and he seldom refuses to accept them. Should he refuse, the parents might as well move out of Slam, as the refusal would simply mean the parents were in royal disfavor."

"How do the other people get their wives over there?"

"Oh, buy them. Many of the nobles have numerous wives. If a kirl strikes their fancy they negotiate for her purchase, but not generally until they have paid her proper sult. Some of them buy their wives from the ranks of the actresses in the Slamese theaters. Prices vary from $1,000 to $00. It costs more to marry into a rich family. Sometimes young couples elope, just as they do in other countries, but the groom has to settle just the same. There is a rate fixed for elopements -400 ticals, or about $240.

THE PHENIX BREWERY.

Manufacturers of the Celebrated Pearl

Lovers of the national beverage are always claiming great merits for their special brand. and arguments of every description are brought forward to prove their assertions. Here in St. Louis it is a difficult matter to discover a glass of poor beer. But then there are many that are better than others. It is doubtful if there is any more popular, certainly none more liked than the Celebrated Pearl Lager. This most delightful brew has been manufactured by the A. Griesedieck Brewing Co. As, however, the members of the Griesedieck family have long ceased to be connected with the company, the popular managers of the same have concluded to change the name of the company, and hereafter it will be known as the Phanis Brevery. The peculiar appropriateness of this name is immediately seen. The brewery will not, like the famous bird of old, rise from its ashes, but, on the contrary, rise from a name, fame and popularity well known and well cherished, to a condition of popularity and prosperity unknown in the history of the brewing business. If you are thirsty, gentle reader, do not fail to quench your thirst with a glass of the Celebrated Fearl Lager manufactured only by the Phenix Brewery. You will find it in every quarter of the city. But if you should not, why, address the company itself, corner of Second Carondelet and Lafayette avenues. Startling Experience With a Crasy

Guide.

From the July Century.

In Mr. Fuller's new story, "The Chatelaine of La Trinite," now running in the Century, he describes an exciting interview in the cottage of a guide. The wails of the room are hung with reliefs of the Swiss mountains, and it is over these maps that the guide conducts, in imagination, his frightened party:

"The Governor was scanning him closely. To put this grave, composed gentleman under suspicion was unjust; to subject him to restraint was outrageous. If every one who indulged his fancy was mentally deranged, what might people be thinking of himself? * * Nonsense; this man was as clear-headed as anybody else.

"Their host rose suddenly and ordered the tea-things out. They must lose no more time, he said. The glacter should be crossed before the sun and to too high. They must press on to the summit. Their real, serious work was just about to begin. He quickly threw open the door of a little cabinet, and passed out an alpenstock to Aurelia West. He thrust an ice ax into Zeitgeist's hand, and pressed upon the Governor a long coil of rope, which the shame-faced oid gentleman received as it had been a penitential scourge. And here were spectacles of colored glass; the glare on the snow was so terrible—terrible. Was all ready? Allons; en avant. With care, mademoisellel with care!

"He selzed the Chatelaine by the arm. Beware that crevasse—it was just here that the young English lady had gone down and dragged her guide with her. Be cautious, young sir; this ice-steep was treacherous enough in truth; but three steps—cut sower all that was needed. There was no cause for alarm yet; slowly and steadily, and all was well. But what was this, rushing, leaping, tumbling, crashing down with an ever louder roar? Back, back, monsieur! He pinned the Governor against the wall, and whyled the drops of sweat from his own forehead. Ah-h! it was happly past—'ava lanche—and none of them the worse for it.

"Well, then, here was the Grand Plateau, here the Mur de la Cote, here the Petits Mullets, but the

'The young Englishwoman gave a shrill scream. The young men stared in amazement. Aurelia West and the chatelaine drew back in terror. The Governor set his jaw, seized the unfortunate firmly by the arm, caught the pointer out of his hand, and in ten seconds had conducted the whole party down to Chamouni with a clear head and a sure foot. He placed their host on the chair beside the model, and gave him a glass of water. The poor fellow weakly kissed his hand and burst into tears."

A MONOMETRIC QUEEN. That Is, Victoria Has a Single Standard to Measure Men. From the Pall Mall Buges.

Our fellow-citizens may be surprised to hear that Queen Victoria is a "monometric" woman. They will wonder what this oddlynamed quelity is. Prof. Karl Vogt will enlighten them. In a memoir of his lately deceased colleague, Dr. August Wilhelm Hoffman, which he has contributed to a Swiss paper, he divides the sex into "polymetric and monometric ladies." The Queen of England, says he, is "eine monometrische Dame." A woman of this species always selects one man whom she constitutes her measure or ideal of all other men of the same office, social class or profession. "For the Queen of England," says the old republican philosopher, "there existed only one perfect husband, the Prince Consort; only one consummate flower of statesmanship. Lord Disraeli Beaconsfield, and only one ideally complete natural scientist, August Wilhelm Hoffman."

The loyal Englishman will ask what the Queen had to do with the late Dr. Hoffman. When she made her Rhine tour with Prince Albert, after their marriage, she expressed an eager desire to see the rooms in which her husband had lived during his student days at Bonn. They were inhabited at the time by Dr. Hoffman, and the Queen found the then privatdozent at the university busy at then privatdozent at the university busy at a chemical experiment. The scientist, as Prof. Vogt punningly says, "was a Hojmann (courtierly man) in nature as well as in surname." The young Queen was charmed with his talk, concluded that there was no other such chemical researcher in the world,

"And now you have created for us Siddartha in 'La Lace deil' Asia.' What do you think of it?" I asked. "It's a very pretty thing. The music is sincere, and in these times it is not very often that we find that. Sincerity in art is not easy to meet with. The composer is a man who writes what he feels—so for the sake of art I shall be delighted if he succeeds. He loves melody, and strikes a very agreeable note in his work. Those who seek only effect are necessarily obliged to vitiate their tastes, for they sacrifice sentiment in their endeavors to strike the attention of the public."

Honor Thy Father and Mother,

From the Christian Advocate.

The Jewish law commands the father of a child to take the full responsibility for every sin of the child from his birthday to the close of his 18th year. With the entrance of his 18th year his boy became barmitzvah, a man of commandment, bar meaning son and mitzvah man. He takes upon himself the responsibility to fuffill the whole duty of the Jewish law, to be a religious man or a sinner, to be rewarded or punished by God, happy or unhappy, and, being from this day barmitzvah, the father is redeemed from all responsibility, and by its celebration he thanks God that He has redeemed him from accountability of sindoing by his From the Christian Advocate.

made by a little boy in Paterson, N. J., not long ago:

long ago:

MY DEAR PARENTS AND PRIENDS—To-day I have arrived at that important station of my life when, becoming barmitavah, "a son of the commandment," I take upon myself the obligations of the Mosaic law. To-day I proclaim with heart and soul in this holy place and in presence of this congregation the unity of God. "Hear. O Israel, the Lord is our God. the Lord is One." To-day I feel happy to acknowledge myself as one of the community of Israel. To-day I turn over an entirely new leaf in the history of my life. But believe me that it is my earnest desire to remain always a faithful son of Israel, and that, as I enter to-day into the contragation of Abraham, Issae and Jacob, assert to claim fellowaling the them is a faithful contragation of Abraham, Issae and Jacob, serve to claim fellowaling the them is a faithful contragation of Abraham, Issae and Jacob, serve to claim fellowaling the them is the contragation of the contragation, now have done for me? May God bless you my relatives and friends and this entire congregation, now and forever. Amen.

From the San Francisco Examiner.

J. T. Martin, a young farmer living in the San Gabriel River bottoms last evening, after a day's labor in his cotton field, started homeward. He was crossing a stretch of dense woodland near the river when he suddenly came upon a woman entirely devoid of clothing, who was down on all fours greedly devouring the tender grass and cactus buds. Martin watched her from behinda clump of bushes for a few minutes and finally decided to attempt her capture. He had a stout twine string in his pocket with which he expected to bind her hands securely. Having laid his plans, he crept stealthily up behind the woman. He made a spring for her and grabbed her by the foot. The wild creature, upon being taken by surprise, went into a terrible rage and fought like a demon. According to Martin's story, the battle was a terrible one while it lasted. He was here to day and bears deep wounds on his face and arms, which he claims were caused by the woman's teeth and singer nails. She made no outcry during the encounter, and after freeling herself she darted into the thick underbrush. From the San Francisco Examiner.

Martin's description of the strange woman tallies with that given by various citizens of this piace who saw her in the same neighborhood last week. She is of splendid form, about 19 years of age, and has long, black hair. There are a number of caveras along the San Gabriel River, and it is believed that the woman makes her home in one of these

"Come, Phil."

A handsome 1,500-pound specimen of the bovine species which has been moping lazily along the driveway pricks up his ears in quick response to the call and trots up to his master with a promptness that would be commendable even in a pet dog. The call came from Head Driver Murphy, or one of his assistants, and Philip knows well enough what it means.

came from Head Driver murphy, to the chils assistants, and Philip knows well enough what it means.

"G'long over to F," shouts the driver, and at the same time he points up the alley in the direction of sec. "F." The motion of the driver's hand is superfluous, however, for Philip knows as well as anybody where "F" is, and he gallops off up the narrow driveway more like an educated canine than the huge, lazy steer that he is.

There is an interesting coincidence in connection with big Phil's history. His name, unabridged, is Philip D, Armour. This is also the name of the proprietor of the packinghouse at which the cloven-footed Philip is an important functionary. Driver Murphy, however, blunts the point of the coincidence by his explanation that the steer was honored with the name of his noted owner in order to give the animal a due appreciation of his extraordinary prowess and responsibility.

While Philip has arisen from obscurity to pre-eminence and has become king of his kine, he has also degenerated morally from an innocent and guileless country ox into an arch-hypocrite. The gruesome offices of a hangman fade into insignificance when compared with those of Philip.

His daily labor is to entice the innocent cattle from their peans by his peculiar magnetism, and then lead them in a wild dash to

His daily labor is to entice the innocent cattle from their pens by his peculiar magnetism, and then lead them in a wild dash to their death. As the drivers swing open the gate of a pen and rush a drove of frightened, trembling steers out into the driveway. Phil gallops boldly up, and, swinging in ahead of the herd, assures his bewildered country brothers that he is master of the situation; that he has come as their deliverer, and that if they will follow him they will be browsing in clover fields and drinking from spring-fed brooks before the sun sets.

The unsuspecting cattle instinctively fall into line as soon as their eyes fall on the handsome and intrepid Philip. The herd troops away down the alleys, following closely every turn of their leader as hedodges in and out among wagons and sheds and heads struight for the broad "shoot" which leads up to the capacious slaughter-pen. When Phil approaches the "shoots" he has urged his followers into a med stampede. Quick as a flash the leader whirls to one side at the foot of the approach, and the herd, carried on by its own impetus, charges mally up the ascent and into the waiting-room of death. Philip has sent another hundred of his kin to their doom. The big gates close benind his victims and they are led into the slaughter mill one by one, almost as fast as one can count them, to come out flayed, drawn and quartered for the butcher's block.

drawn and quartered for the butcher's block.

Philip knows no pity, no remorse. His conscience is seared and callous. As he avoids the slaughter-pen by an adroit turn and sends his followers on to their death he drops his head between his knees and seems to chuckle with ghoulish delight as he listens to the clatter of his victims' hoofs as they clamber pelimell up the fatal "shoot."

To stay the butcher's knife from his own neck Philip has betrayed 100,000 fellow creatures which looked upon him for guidance. Perhaps it was through deference to the consummate villainy of such a beast as Philip that old Beelzebub took to wearing cloven hoofs.

STEAM IN THE TWELFTH CENTURY.

A Disjointed Engine Found in a Chest in Disjointed Engine Found in a Chest in Finland.

Under the head "A Steam Engine Under Louis VII." the Moniteur Industriel reprints from an unknown exchange an item to this effect: "A short time ago, in making excavations for the foundations of a new building at Heisingfors, in Finland, the faborers unearthed a large iron-bound chest, which it took several hours' work to open. In it were found a large number of pieces of iron of various sizes and shapes, methodically arranged, and a voluminous parchment roll, xiving, in Latin, an extensive treatise on steam, its uses, etc. The iron contents of the chest were found to be nothing less than the several disjointed parts—pistons, cylinders, etc.—of a rude form of steam engine. Nearly all the parts bore the inscription, "Suger parenf Galliæ lecit." Suger, who was the prime minister of Louis VII., received from him the title "Father of the country," and it is he, without doubt, to whom the Latin inscription refers. Mr. Nicolas Rizeff, chief magistrate of Heisingfors, to whom the chest and its contents were turned over, proposes, so it is said, to send it to the Chicago Exposition.

It may not be uninteresting to recall, in connection with this matter, the fact that Louis VII. lived from 1137 to 1189, while Denis Papin lived fully four centuries later—from 1647 to 1710—so that apparently there was an application of the expansive force of steam long before the hitherto usually accepted date. The Truth of the whole story, however, as outlined above, remains to be established.

The Song of Peace.

From Harper's Bazar.

A song is astir in the air,
And I would drink it in
With the scent of the roses rich and rare;
But still the battle's din
Rings in my ears and deafens me;
I cannot hear the strain.
The noise of the world, its misery,
Throbs like a bitter pain.

But now and then, as in despair
I seek to rend the bonds,
Comes a burst of harmony on the air
To which my heart responds;
And then the echo of the fray
A moment seems to cease;
Though the wonurous harmony dies away,
That moment brings me peace.

And then I pray I may retain
A peacefulness of heart,
Though the warrior's laurels I fail to gain,
Or riches of the mart.
For that sweet song will give me rest,
And banish all distress;
The flowers of Goul and the gold of the West
Will be my happiness,

Boins' lead, won its famous victories in that State. Back door legislation is the issue in Iowa.

BRAVE MEN WANTED.

The most pressing need of the Democratic party of Missouri just now is that of brave men. It is perishing for able men of strong and pure convictions, with the full courage of them, who will boldly speak out in council and through the press in denunciation of the corrupt, dangerous and undemocratic elements which are laying their blighting influences upon the great organization of the people.

The spectacle presented to the people of the State within the past half year by the Democracy has been pitiable. The party has been the victim of a bold and uncrupulous conspiracy to make it the political instrument of a policy inimical to the public good. Enough of the work of the conspirators has been done in the open to show their methods and purposes, yet within the party organization scarcely a voice of denunciation, protest or warning has been raised.

The Sedalia and St. Louis conventions were surrendered to the control of the political agents of the railroads without a protesting word. Knowing well how primary conventions had been packed by railroad attorneys and cow-coroners and what vicious means and influences had been used to obtain their power. Democrats sat silent while these political agents, on the floor of the conventions, resorted to all the tricks and arts known in unscrupulous politics to consummate their conspiracy. In one convention they selected their own chiefs as party representatives and in another they nominated for Supreme Judge a man reeking with unanswered charges without a question of their truth or of his fitness for the honor being raised.

In politics as elsewhere vice flourished upon fear of offense. HOW MONOPOLY WAS ESTABLISHED. The advocates of class legislation and po litical lying are convinced that a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth. The workingmen are gravely assured that had it not been for the tariff ther never would have been any "American industry," no Homestead and no chance for the greatest people in the world to make a living. During the course of the discussion of the Carnegie strike these THE Democratic convention of the Ninth propositions have been advanced scores of war-making power the dead-lock candidates this time. It does not occur to these declaimers that high tariff taxes were not enacted for the purpose of establishing industry. They were levied as war taxes at a time when any economic enormity was justifiable if it helped to save the nation's life. The war tariff was a revenue tariff. It was no approved it thought of it only as the easiest way to raise money.

At that time American industry was well established. Workingmen then, as now, enjoyed higher wages than foreign Sunday closing question indicates that laborers, and American goods were sold in competition with English manufactures at home and abroad. For a nation of only ably represented by Harrison and Wan- 30,000,000 inhabitants, less than 100 years AMAKER and so aptly described by Judge old, we were doing quite well. The tariffs previous to 1861 were not designed to foster monopoly, but were honest measures in the interest of the whole people.

The civil war was the monopolist's opportunity. He was established by the war tariff and he has had influence enough to maintain himself ever since. Protection and the theaters want the Fair shut up in the McKinley sense was an after-Sundays, but what is the ex-Treasurer thought. The people were deluded by tables of statistics carefully prepared. They were made to swallow the wages argument in spite of the fact that the nation was prosperous under high wages before the war and had enjoyed a fair share of the world's trade without a 50 per cent tariff. High tariffs did not establish and could not establish American industry, which arose because of the unsurpassed richness of our resources and the superior intelligence and inventive genius of the people. But they did establish monopoly, which thrives on legislative blunders and econom-

THE prospects for fusion in Iowa and Minnesota are very bright. In the former State it is proposed to give the People's party the electoral ticket, while the united strength of both parties is concentrated on Democratic nominees for State officers. In Minnesota the Democrats will probably have four or five electors on the coalition ticket. The terms in Iowa are very liberal to the People's party-perhaps too liberal, when it is remembered that the State has

But there is every reason to believe that they are awaking at last to a realization of the truth. Surely in the face of what has happened and is happening at Homestead the workingmen of Pennsylvania must be gaining a glimpse of the truth. We believe an increasing number of them every day must come to realize that the emancipation of American labor can only be accomplished by overthrowing the Republican party. We believe there will be a tremendous revolt of "protected labor" from the grand old party in Pennsylvania next November. It may not be formidable enough to take the State from Harrison, but that, we believe, would be the result if the Australian ballot system were in force in Pennsylvania. Under the present law the plutocrats will probably be able to keep the State in the Republican column by a free use of money and by wholesale intimidation. from the San Francisco Examiner. "A tariff for revenue," exclaim the or-gans from amid the wreck of McKinleyism, "would expose our manufacturers to European competition." That would be the very best thing that could happen to them. Com-petition, or rather the fear of it, would smash the trusts. With the smashing of the trusts the mills and factories now closed down to limit production would reopen. In order to retain the home market the unprotected manufacturers would have to give which they now expend in politics and schemes for preventing competition among themselves behind the tariff wall. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I desire to call the attention of my fellow citizens to the report of Comptroller Stevenson, recently submitted. It is very interestto the People's party—perhaps too liberal, when it is remembered that the State has been Democratic in the last three elections. Still, the object in yiew is the defeat of BENJAMIN HARRISON and the means of accomplishing it should not be weighed in an apothecary's scale as long as they are honest.

THAT Northwestern Committee which President HARRISON wants to establish at Chicago to look after the agricultural States will have plenty of work to do, but it will probably be a case of love's labor lost. The Republicans will face a powerful cosition between the Democracy and the People's party in Kansas, lows and Minnesota. This coalition commands a large majority which can hardly be overcome. Votes are not for sale in these States and the election must be won, if at all, by honorable means. But this is little short of impossible. The Republicans had better devote themselves to New York and Indians, where floaters abound and can be had cheap.

MANAGER FRICK asserts his right to employ the cheapest laborers he can find in the market and to protection for them against the men who insist upon his paying fair living wages. No one denies it, yet this is what the tariff reformers have been telling the working men all the time. The tariff barons, get the highest protective taxation they can force out of a subservient party and pay the lowest wages that needy men will work for. The tariff benefits are for the tariff barons.

The Republican View of It.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: Justice would seem to say, give the other fellows a show. You do occasionally get on to the right in spite of the political boss idea, that every trouble among workmen must be given an origin in the tariff laws. Here's a case where you were right. stead may witness greater slaughter than it has yet seen!"
Here is the Palmer doctrine prociaimed. The places are ours, and no other men shall be employed there so long as we survive fighting for them, even with the State military. And yet your paper and all Democratic papers encourage these men to starve all workmen who do not wear the unin collar and be driven like slaves by its bosses. Even the Quartermaster-General in Idaho refers to the non-union men as "scabs." It is not the tariff. The witnesses among the workmen complained that when the tariff was reduced on steel billets prices were reduced by their own scale; that the higher the tariff the higher was wages. Yet you continually cry. "See the fruit of high lariff!" It is a labor combine to starve us who will not be driven by our bosses.

It became apparent early in the day that the Kinsey men had strengthened their cause materially in the county during the past few days. The Dosenbach-Smith tragdy has had a most important bearing of the situation in the county. Reports from Central, Meramec, Carondelet and Bonnomme Townships received late this after noon showed that the Bartholdt men wer making but little effort to elect the dele gates. Dalton may not go up to the capital until to morrow morning, as he is interested in the outcome of the meeting of the delegates in the Hendricks Association rooms this evening. He spent the greater part of the day in the outlying wards looking up the delegates to see that they were all in line.

Candidate Stone disappeared from the Laclede early this morning and did not get back until late in the afternoon when he sat down tired and hungry and ate a big dinner. He is anxious to get a fair share of the so-called Anti-Noonan-Daiton delegates. When he came to the city yesterday morning the first information he received was that Gibson had captured most of the anti-Daiton delegates. Judge Gibson also got around a great deal to-day. The bill to which Congressman Cobb's letter refers in particular is the bill afterwards offered by Senator Cockrill asking that the sum of $250,000 instead of $175,000 be appropriated for the improvement of the barricks. This letter simply means that the bill asking the increase of $75,000 is in all likelihood lost, at leas' for the time bling. It is not considered that the prospects of the first bill introduced, which are very flattering, have been injured or otherwise prejudiced by Senator Cockrill's course in increasing his demands.

Encounter Between W. B. Archer and J. Marson Janes.

THE PIT MOMENTABILY TRANSFORMED INTO A PRIZE-RING.

Known Members of the Merchants' Exchange-Violent Language Used and a Blow Given-The Aggressor Invited to Continue the Combat. But Declines.

There was an unusual amount of excitement in the grain pit this morning, owing to an attempt to turn it into a prize ring, gov-erned by go-as-you-please rules. As is by other exchanges are not in session, the traders were whiling away their season of enforced idleness by some rough skylarking that in many cases closely bordered upon horse play. Hats flew high in the by the coat-talls from the top tier of the pit, and shy but sharp pushes from behind sent man after man in unpremeditated haste to the center of the rin.

THE BEGINNING OF THE END. Among those clustered about the pit were W. B. Archer and J. Masson Janes. Neither was taking any part in the demonstration Mr. Archer was prevented from doing so by the exalted and responsible office of Chair-man of the Floor Committee, if by no other reason. The respect which Mr. Janes entertains for his personal dignity, and the immaculate order of his beautiful attire, furnished hostages for his good behavior. Both were watching the proceedings with unresponsive and unsympathetic eyes, neither dreaming that in a few seconds they would be the center of interest in a contest compared to which the yells and shouts emitted by the leather-lunged youngsters emitted by the leather-lunged youngsters about them would be as the cooing of turtle-doves. The change came over the spirit of their dreams in the following manner:

THE FATEFUL FUSH.

Mr. Archer was standing on the upper step of the pit, with Mr. Janes just below him. Both were perfectly quiet and had a faraway, contemplative look in their eyes. Suddenly someone — the name of the miscreant is shrouded in oblivion—violently inserted his head into the small of Mr. Archer's back. The effect was electrical. The contemplativelmoodlwas instantaneously altered. For a fraction of a second Mr. Archer's back. The effect was electrical. The contemplativelmoodlwas instantaneously altered. For a fraction of a second Mr. Archer tottered, tried to preserve his balance, and then with extended arms and a wild yell plunged headlong into the pit. Those who witnessed his descent compare his attitude to that assumed by the St. Louis bridge jumper at the moment of his desperate leap. The result would have been a disastrous overthrow, had it not been for Mr. Janes, whose form served as a buffer to the descending chairman and enabled him to regain his balance. But the impetus imparted to Mr. Archer was not lost, but simply transmitted to Mr. Janes. His dignified attitude of masterly inactivity was transformed into a sprawling stagger that would have caused the most eminent candidate for the Keeley Institute to turn green with envy, and came near ending in his downfail. From this fate he saved himself, but at the expense of numerous ungraceful gyrations, and with a great expenditure of muscular exertion.

THE BLOW STRUCK.

When once more firmly on his feet he turned around with fury in his eye, drew back his fist and applied it violently to Mr. Archer's proboscis. Concerning what happened afterwards there is some conflict of testimony. Mr. Archer, it is claimed, said: "That was an accident. I was pushed, and did not push you on purpose." Mr. Janes' reply was of such a nature as to cause those religiously inclined to apply their hands to their ears and to glance apprehensively at the ceiling in fear lest it should fall and crush them. The remarks ascribed to Mr. Janes can only be typographically represented by a long series of da shes. At this Mr. Archer became excited in his turn, and flercely turned upon his reviler. "Come outside, where we will not be interfered with, and we will settle this thing."

People began to talk, it is stated, of the manner in which it was thought that Hockaday was spending Mrs. Forster's money. It was reported that Mrs. Forster's brothers were bitterly opposed to her allowing him to use her money. On last Monday, it is stated, George and Philip Cole, Mrs. Forster's brothers, went to Hockaday and compelled him to assign all his property to Mrs. Forster. They then, it is said, ordered him to leave

The money was part of a loan, Mr. Orr stated, negotiated in St. Louis to run the electric light at Farmington. The balance had been used, but was satisfactorily accounted for by Hockaday. Mr. Orr stated that there was nothing tending to show that Hockaday had wrongfully used any of Mrs. Forster's money. In the railroad project, he stated, it was proposed to run the road with power from the plant first established. The plant he said had been placed in Hockaday's name, but he conveyed it by deed, the attorney to restrain Hockaday the difference between Mrs. Forster and Hockaday, he had been simply retained in the suit as an attorney to restrain Hockaday from collecting the money at the Third day from collecting the money at the Third National Bank. Natural Gas in Arkansas

LITTLE BOOK, Ark., July 16.-Much excitement prevails at Morrilton over the discovery of natural gas. Mr. B. Jones, who lives in the western suburbs of the town, was having his well drilled deeper. At the depth of 100 feet a bubbling was heard, and upon southing a match to the opening a flame shot up ten feet high into the air. It was quickly extinguished, as it endangered the residence, which stands near by. A temporary burner was made by attaching an inch pipe to the well and running it out a safe distance. From this gas has been burning the past two days, and has been viewed by thousands of citizens from the surrounding country. The fame is steady, white and about eight inches high.

Every part of her person was covered with sores, excepting bead. After taking CUTICURA REMEDIES two weeks the itch stopped, and in four weeks the sores were all gone. CHARLES M. GRONEL, Conshohocken, Montgomery Co., Pa.

BAD ECZEMA ON BABY Our baby boy, four months old, had bad case of eczema. Head was a solid sore. Three doctors did not help him. Hands tied sixteen weeks. Mittens on his hands to prevent his scratching. CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him, and GEO. B. and JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

WORST FORM ECZEMA

Baby had eczema, worst form. Baffled the best doctors here. The little sufferer was in agony eight months. Then began with CUTTLURA REMEDIES. In two months the awful disease had ceased its vengeance. No trace could be seen of it, go box was cured. and my darling boy was cured.
J. A. NICOLES, Bunker Hill, Ind.

Parents and all having the care of children should know that no remedies ever compounded in the history of medicine have performed the wonderful cures daily made by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which are in truth the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times. Cures made in childhood are permanent.

Luxuriant Hair

It is the season of all others to forever cleanse the blood, skin, and scalp of all impurities and hereditary elements, which, if neglected, may become life-long afflictions. Parents, think of this. Save your children years of physical and mental suffering by reason of torturing and disfiguring humors and diseases.

BABY RAW AS BEEFSTEAK

Baby very sick with ecsema when three months old. Had home doctors and specialists. Got worse all the time. Whole body raw as beefsteak. Hair gone. Expected him to die. Sick six months before we tried CUTICURAS. No faith in them but in two months he was entirely cured. Not a spet on him now and plenty of hair.

MRS. FRANK BARRETT, Winfield, Mich.

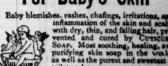

TERRIBLE ITCHING Mrs. OSCAR JAMES, Wood

BABY ONE SOLID SORE

Baby two months old. Head, arms, feet, hands each one solid sore. Doctors and everything else did no good. Without faith tried CUTICUEA REMEDIES. In one week the sores were well. Now fat baby. Sound as a dollar. MRS. BETTIE BIRKNER.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold throughout the world. Price, CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, 50 cents; CUTICURA SOAP, 25 cents; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston. "All About the Skin, Scalp, and Hair,"

HE IS THE MAN! OUR ONLY MCNICHOLS

Who is your friend when all is lost!
The one who never counts the cost.
The one who heave with honest real
And knows how best to aid and heal.
McNichol's friend of rich and poor,
No sout need falter at his door.
Thank Heaven, cash makes not now the man,
But Mac's new installment plan!

No matter if your gains are small, He helps and does and covers all; He aids the moneyless the same As people noted, known to fame. How many souls repose and rest In quiet nook and homelikeness, Because they had the grit to speak And learned to pay up by the week.

McNichol's friendship needs no boast,
If quiet, it effects the most.
Men who have never saved a cent,
Or hoped to own a home or rent—
They now enjoy a peaceful spot
Where worry, woe and debt come not.
He never makes his clients fret
By plunging them in heavy debt.

You choose your goods whene'er you may, And fix a time and kind of pay— You get your disbes, beds and chairs, Your pictures, cortains fine, in pairs; Your stoves, ice-chests, and all you need To make a paradise, indeed. Far better this than start to roam; Get the dear loved ones, now, a home. It is easier than you think. You have only to

SORE THROATS.

Sore throat is the cause of more than half the trouble that comes from contagious diseases. The germs of these maladies such as scarlet fever, diphtheria, mumps, measles, smallpox and the like float in the air. They can be taken into the human system without danger, if they do not find an abraded surface. If they do, they enter the blood and swarm in millions. It is well known that diphtheria can be taken from a wound on the skin on the body. It is particularly noticeable that when such a malady as diphtheria rages it always attacks people after they have caught a slight cold. When you take cold, therefore, and your throat is sore get a bottle of REID'S GERMAN COUGH & KIDNEY CURE at once and take it freely. If your druggist will not order it for you write to us. Small bottles 25 cents, large ones 50

Base Ball Clubs Renew Their Battle

THE ECHEDULE OF GAMES AND PROS-PECTS OF THE BACE

Louis Opens Well at Boston and Baltimore Also Scores a Point Over Cincinnati - Brooklyn and Chicago Play Eleven Innings-Corrigen on the Big Match Race-Sporting News.

The Twelve-Club League's second cham-clonship season was inaugurated yesterday, and there were some surprises, notably the overwhelming victory over oston's champions and Cincinnati's deeat at the hands of Baltimore. St. Louis had no new men, but the Orioles had their new players, Outfielder Harry Stovey and Short-stop Ward. Anson and his reorganized colts made the strong Brooklyn team play eleven innings to them. It is safe to say that when the second championship season closes Chicago will not stand as poorly in the race as it did at the end of the first season, not that the team has been so much improved, but because it did not do the work in the first season of which it is capable. There is no prospect of the St. Louis club proving a pennant winner, and if it succeeds in getting up among the first six teams it will more than realize expectations. The team was the only Western club to win yesterday.

oct. 15. During the first championship season the Eastern clubs made two trips West and the Western organizations went East but once. The schedule for the coming season provides for just the opposite. Each club will play a series of seven games with each of the other eleven teams. The Western clubs will make two trips East and in each instance will play a two-game series with the six Eastern clubs. After the present trip of the Western clubs the clubs of the West will meet each other and the Eastern teams will come West and play a three-game series with the six Western clubs. They will then return home and receive the Western clubs over again, after which the season will close with the Western clubs playing among themselves and the Eastern teams doing the same. The Browns will be gone until Aug. 4, when they will return and open up at Sportsman's Park with Chicago. After entertaining Anson's colts and Fred Pfener's Louisville colonels, they will move on to Pittsburg, play two games, return by way of Louisville where they play the same number, and then prepare to receive the Eastern clubs at home. Brooklyn opens here Aug. 16. The club that wins the pennant in the championship season in augurated yesterday will, providing it is not Boston again, play the Bean Eaters for the championship of America.

CHANGES IN CLUBS. BALTIMORE, July 17 .- The Cincinnatis have signed Curt Welch, released by the Baltimore Club, and will release Pete Browning. The Baltimore management have accepted the terms of Pitcher Vickery. Stricker has been made Captain in place of Van Haltren.

TESTERDAY'S GAMES. The Browns opened up the second championship season at the Massachusetts metropolis yesterday by administering to Boston's champions the most inglorious defeat they have sustained this season. Nichols was in the box for the champions, and the Browns opened out on his delivery in the first inning. and with the exception of the fourth, they slaughtered his curves in the most victous slaughtered his curves in the most vicious manner throughout the contest. Carroll, Crooks, Werden and Gleason were the chief instigators of the leather hunt, although the other men also helped along the good work. Gleason pitched for the Browns, and with the exception of the seventh inning, when Boston secured three runs on excusable errors by Crooks and Glasscock, was invincable. Glasscock as usual carried off, the fielding honors of the game. The summary follows: St. Louis, 29; Boston, 3. Base hits—St. Louis, 20; Boston, 9. Errors—St. Louis, 2; Boston, 2. Batteries—St. Louis, Gleason and Buckley; Boston, Nichols and Kelly. Attendance—1,200. Umpire—Hurst.

THE TURF.

"Green Morris telegraphed me asking whether he should start Huron in the special race, which takes place at Brighton Beach next Friday, in which Longstreet, Major Domo, Judge Morrow, Aloha and others are entered," said Ed Corrigan Thursday, "and I replied to use his own judgment, He did not state how the colt was doing." The distance for the special race at Brighton Beach will be one and one-quarter miles and Huron will be dangerous if he regains his old form. The colt has speed, plenty of it, and ought to make a much better showing than he has done. That he has not been right is certain.

EAST ST. LOUIS JOCKEY CLUB. Van, the favorite in the opening scramble at the course across the river yesterday, was defeated by Sister Ione, a complete outsider, who closed at 8 to 1; Miss Kitty, a red hot first choice, who closed at 7 to 10, captured the second race; Henry Mack, another first choice, who closed at 3 to 2, was successful in the third event; Buckhound, another cdds on first choice, who closed 4 to 5, captured the handlap handly, and that most consistent performer, Lucy Howard, who closed the first choice in the closing event at 4 to 5, won by a length after a driving finish with stratagem.  THE EVENING EVENTS.

Dave Nelson, owner of the horse Mamie S. who ran second to Fonda in the second race at South Side last night, according to a dispatch from Kansas City, where the South Side night events are played, made a killing on Fonda's victory. While the race was in progress, Judge Hatch received a dispatch from that place stating that Fonda had been backed off the boards by Nelson and his friends. The patrol judges, however, made no complaint over the manner in which the race was run and no action was taken. The summaries follow:

TRACK TALK. The winners at Kansas City yesterday were Miss Mary, Miami, Carter B., Gracie M. and Lucy Day.

The winners at Gloucester yesterday were Mirthwood, Waltz. Ofalece, Double Cross, Insight and King Idle.

Aloha is attracting some attention at Mon-mouth. The critics there think he may have a great turn of speed but do not believe him to be the equal of Longstreet or Kingston. The Garfield Park Club applied for a three-months' permit for their track yesterday at Chicago. They tendered the City Collector 150 for three months' fees, but were refused the permit. The club representatives will appeal their case to the Mayor, but as it was by his orders that the permit was denied it is not likely that the club's efforts will be suc cessful.

Willie Martin, who was ruled off at Brighton Beach, was out West last spring with Eugene Leigh. At one time Martin was thought to be the coming jockey. When he cast his lot with the Guttenburgers he was not in good standing with the Board of Control. Last winter at the North Bergen course he made over $10,000, and the future looked golden. His case is one that has a moral attached to it.

"Tiny" Williams was set down for five days and fined $100 Thursday at Washington Park, for queer actions at the post on Sabine. In talking to a friend about it Williams said: "I was passin' a man and he asked me 'bout Sabine, an' I jes tooted out: 'Oh, this yahr hoss am out for an airin'.' See, I clean forgot myself. Quick like, I laughed and fired back: 'No, no, mister, I'se goin' to win.' I guess that unlucky talk hoodooed me."

"Dow" Williams, the trainer of the Santa Anita Stabies, has received instructions from Lucky Baldwin to get all the good ones of the string ready for shipping to Saratoga to-morrow. Williams has selected fourteen, including Santlago, San Pabla, Santa Anna, Gallindo, Experiment Coit and others, and these horses will be entered in the richer Eastern purse events. The remaining dozen, mostly young bloods and fillies, will race at Garfield and during the rest of the Washington Park meeting.

The auction sale of the thoroughbred year-lings bred by Charles Reed & Sons at their Fairview stud at Gallatin, Tenn., took place at Monmouth Park yesterday. A chestnut colt by Mr. Pickwick out of Flora was purchased by F. P. McLewee for $10,000; a bay coit by the same sire out of Round Dance was bid in by Foxhall Keene for $7,500 and another son of Mr. Pickwick out of a half sister to Flora was captured by August Belmont, Jr., for $6,500. The entire lot brought $53,800, an average of $1,522.85 per head.

SEYMOUR, Ind., July 16.—Joe Sheer of Louisville successfully coped with Jim Casey, the light-weight champion of the slope, for six rounds with light gloves at a rink in this city last night. The Mayor this morning ordered the police to drive all sports from the city immediately. For the past six weeks this city has been a veritable stamping ground for people of this ilk.

Toledo, O., July 16.--Early Wednesday norning while the schooner Madeline Dowling, on its way from Buffalo to this city, was passing the Dunning, about 150 miles east of here in Lake Erle, Capt. Patrick Woods saw, about a half mile ahead, the waters of the lake lashed into foam. Drawing near, to the surprise of the Captain and all on board, a huge sea serpent, wrestling about in the vaters as if fighting with an unseen enemy, was seen. It soon quieted down and lay at all length on the surface of the water. Capt. Woods estimates it to be about fifty feet in length and not less than four feet in circumference of body. Its head was projecting from the water about four feet. He says it was a terrible looking object. It had victously sparkling eyes and a large head. Fins were seen, seemingly sufficiently large to assist the snake in propelling itself through the water. The body was dark brown in color and was uniform all along. From what he says, it would be capable of crushing a yawi boat and its occupants.

As the vessel passed on its course the snake
